INSPIRING READING

Abbey was buzzing with excitement as author Louie Stowell, creator of the Loki book series, paid a special visit to run an inspiring assembly all about being an author.

Pupils were completely captivated as Louie shared stories from her writing journey, revealing how she turned her love of Norse myths into laugh-out-loud adventures.

The hall was filled with laughter and wide-eyed wonder as she explained what it takes to bring characters – even the mischievous Loki himself – to life on the page.

But the fun didn't stop there! Louie also gave the children a hilarious caricature drawing lesson, showing them how to exaggerate features and capture personality with a single pen stroke.

Teachers said the visit was “a brilliant way to spark creativity and inspire a lifelong love of reading.”

By the end of the day, many pupils were eager to pick up their pens – or a new book – and let their imagination run wild.

Thanks to 5M for the story.
